CHARLEROI CELEBRATES GLORIOUS NEWS FROM WESTERN BATTLEFRONT

Shrieking Whistles, Parade and Mass Meeting Give Vent to Patriotism

IT WAS A SPLENDID NIGHT

Charleroi was excited Thursday night. And, moreover, its citizens celebrated in a most enthusiastic manner, when the news came that the American forces on the western battle front, and engaged in a great offensive movement, had advanced their lines several miles, had taken several thousand prisonrs, as well as a large amount of booty.

It was after 8 o'clock before the word reached town of what had transpired in far-off France, the first intimation being the blowing of whistles at the government boat yard at North Charleroi. Over in Monessen the big mill whistles had taken up the refrain, which had been sweeping up the valley all evening, and when our citizens realized the full import of the cheering news, they joined in the eclebration and added their enthusiasm to the fast swelling tide. The local factory whistles began their refrain about 8:10, the fire bell rang and people began to wonder where the fire was. Then it was reported that the American troops had won a great victory on the western battle front and the excitement began to grow at a rapid rate. Directly thereafter the French club, marching as an organization, with band playing and flags flying, paraded from their club house, down Third street, on to McKean, their ranks being swelled by volunteers as they marched along. This appeared to be the beginning of an impromptu parade which soon swelled to a gigantic mass, every marcher enthusiastic and almost all of them carrying a flag. It was a spontaneous outburst on the part of the people and particularly among those of foreign birth or of foreign parentage. They realized more than the Americans what war means on the blood-drenched fields of Europe, and when the news came that the Hun was not only being held, but being driven back, their joy was unbounded. The tide of battle had evidently turned; the American forces, which have been rapidly entering France during the past year had finally arrived at that point where they were sufficient in force and efficiency to take the initiative and the blow was being delivered.

And yet while these of our foreign population were rejoicing, no less heartily were those of American birth adding their enthusiasm to the fast swelling chorus, which within a very short time enveloped the whole town. It was a demonstration of democracy; it was an outpouring of thankfulness for the success that the American arms had attained, for while we had been a little apprehensive when the fifth German drive began, having full faith in the valor and bravery of the

PLANT TO BE EXTERSIVE

Will Cover Many Acres Of Land On River Frontage Near Elizabeth

TO BUILD BIG RIVER DOCKS

The new manufacturing plant which is to be erected near West Elizabeth between the villages of Jones and Jefferson promise to be a most extensive one. The promoters, Cleveland capitalsts, paid $2.000 an acre for the ground above the railroad and $5,000 per acre for sixteen acres between the railroad and the river. Mr. Hillman, who sold the property offred to take the price in stock of the concern, but he was informed they had all the money necessary.

The industry is to be a mammoth plant for the manufacture of bolts steel and wooden ships for the new merchant marine, the present production not being sufficent to supply 50 per cent of the demands by the shipyards of the country. Preparation are also being made for the erection of an immense river dock to receive coal and coke and other raw materals, and to ship by river the finished product to gulf ports. This with the railroad passing through the plant will give the concern excellent shipping facilities.

Some of the largest contracting firms n the country are bidding on the construction of the plant and work on its erection is expected to begin very shortly. The erection of the plant is expeeted to give quite a boom to West Elizabeth which since the passing of the coal trade from that section has been a very quiet community.

A correspondent asks why so many persons mispronounce theword ally "with the accent on the 'al' instead of on the 'ly'? Possibly it is because they are thesame persons who also insist on wrongly placing the accent on the first syllable in "address" and "police." Most folk find it easier to do the wrong than to do the right in a moral sense and a similarly perverse inclination is noticeable in the matter of syntax.

Charleroi Boy Is Killed In Action

In the midst of Charleroi's rejoicing over the success of the American arms in France, sad news came to one of our families, telling that a son and brother had paid the supreme sacrifice and had died a glorious death on the fi eld of battle.

This morning John Zippay of 1217 McKean avenue, received a telegram from General Barnett, commander of the Marine Corps, stating that his son, Michael, had been killed in action on the third of June. The telegram was delieverd to the stricken home about 9 o'clock this morning, a brother of the dead soldier, little John aged 13, receiving the fateful message. The other members of the family were soon appraised of the sad intelligence as well as many of the neighbors, and many expressions of sympathy were tendered to the bereaved father, sister and brothers.

Michael Zippay was born in Mt. Carmel, Pa., April 20, 1897 and was 21 years of age only a few months ago. Last November he was working in a plant in New Jersey which was turning out war material and the foreman promised to have hm exempted from service. Michael however had other views and saying that he proposed to enlist, believing it his duty to do so, gave up his employment and came to Pittsburg early in December, where he enlisted in the Marine. He visited the home folks for a few days and then went to Paris Island, S. C., for preliminary training. From there he was moved to Quantico, Va., and from there overseas in February.

In May his family had a letter from him saying that he had been at the front for a month had been on the firing line, and was then back of the lines on a few days' rest, after which he expected to return to the trenches. That he returned is shown by the fact that news of his death comes to his family this morning.

He is survivel by his father, John Zippay, three sisters, Mrs. John Body, of Charleroi, Mrs. W. S. Young of Denver, Col., who arrived a few days ago for a visit with her father and Elizabeth in a training school in Cleveland, two brothers, George a member of Co. I, Third Infantry, stationed at Eagle Pass, Tex., and Andrew of Fayette City and John at home.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the family in this dark hour of trial and while our people rejoice in the splendid feat of arms which has been accomplished by our boys in France, they realize that we must be prepared, in that many of our boys are apt to be called upon to pay the supreme price for their patriotism.

SALES WERE GENEROUS

TOTAL COUNTY SALES LARGE

Charleroi's War Savings Stamp drive was a most satisfactory campaign and Chairman W. B. Patterson is more than gratified with the success which his commitee attained in disposing of these baby bonds in our local community. He feels that he is greatly indebted to every individual member of the committee for the excellency of their work which is shown in the returns made to his office sands which he in turn had the pleasure of reporting to Kerfoot W. Daly, chairman of the western district of Washington county.

The figures show the following results both in the county and in Charleroi as to pledges and cash sales: Western area pledges, $846.659; eastern area pledges, $262,350.75; cash sales $547.910.75; total, $1.656,920.75. In Charleroi the total cash sales amounted to $187,435.50, certainly a magnificent showing. In addition there were a number of pledges which will be taken care of before the end of the year.

PATRIOTISM A HELP TO RED CROSS

During the celebration last night $125.00 was raised for the Charleroi Chapter of the American Red Cross. Burgess Woodward, members of council and citizens who carried the large flag during the parade were responsible for the generous contributions, which came from thousands of spectators who lined the sidewalks Paper money and silver came in a stream, among t hem a number of French, Belgian and Italian pieces which were evidently carried as pocket pieces. The money was turned over to Miss Minnie Richardson, secretary this morning.

HOOVERIZING GREAT FUN

It is a pleasure to find the wife of a New York Supreme Court Justice not only bubbling over with enthusiasm in the midst of high prices and war-time restrictions but declaring that "Hooverizing is really great fun." Recently a New York housewife complained in print that she had "jeopardied the peace" of her home by attempting to follow the Food Administrations nstructions. that in doing this she found it impossible to keep a cook. that her employment bureau warned her that it could not supply her with help if she attempted to Hooverize. that upon inquiry she found that her friends were very lax in following the rules and that she was forced to the conclusion that she alone was trying to do her duty. In response Mrs. Justice Shearn spiritedly pays her respects to both the complaining housewife and the disloyal employment agency pitying the luckless husband of the one and hoping that the Federal authorities will clean up the other.

The wife of the Justice contends that cooks as she knows them are neither stupid nor disloyal. that Hooverizing adds zest to housekeeping and announces that even after the war has been won she will never go back to the prodigality of the past. "Experience has taught me," she says, "that a family can keep under the Food Administrator's allowance of flour, beef and sugar and still set a generous and delicious table. But you can't do this if you feed the family sweetbreads and mushrooms and set before the servants war bread and tea. Madame must come down off her perch and form a friendly partnership with the cook, having for its slogan "We must win the war," and she must be just as interested in the meals for employees as thecook is in meals for employers. Together and for each other they must work out light, dainty. palatable flour substitute breads, cakes. rolls and waffles, less cloying sweets and meatless meals." Mrs. Shearn's motto is: "Every time you eat a Hoover corn bread you help knock the kink out of the Kaiser's mustache." And she not only joys in her success but in the fact that the health of her family is improving on war diet.

She finds such household effort little enough to do for the Allies who are fighting our battle as well as their own—the English she 'admires and respects so deeply,' the French she 'loves so well' and the Italians who are 'endeared to her by their history and their ways.' This splendid housewife, lady and parriot forget only to add that such sacrifice in the home is little enough when compared with what so many others are doing such as the overworked government officials and is practically nothing at all compared with the service of the millons of young soldiers who are risking life itself.

THE HOME TRENCHES

"The women of America are only just beginning to feel the war, said a young woman who has recently returned from France, "To feel it in the head is not enough," she continued, "it is only when we women of America feel this war emotional that we will really act."

"Think less about the war and feel it more," is theadvice of a well known woman lecturer. It is this that will govern the morale of the women of America and the morale of the soldiers of any warring country depends largely on its women.

It is said that the women of France have today t he highest morale of people in any of the allied countries. This is because they are sharing today's battle physically as well as spiritually and morally. Some one in describing conditions in Belgium said, "that cry of a starving child in Belgium—it bores a hole right through your brain." If every woman in America could once h ear that cry there would be no slacking in the home trenches.

We are too far away to be tortured hourly by the sight of devastation and scarred ground. We are not reminded of it at every turn by maimed and wounded soldiers. We are not haunted by the drawn faces of the refugees who have felt war's cruelty.

We have not seen the trenches at the front. But we must try to sense them in order to realize the need of keeping up our own home trenches. The kitchens of America are a part of these. They are the most important communication trenches between armies and civilians. The women of America must fight as steadily and as patriotically in these home trenches as do their men folk in the trenches of France and Flanders.

We cannot let down one mite in the matter of food saving. The food line muse be tightened in anticipaton of even a greater shortage next year. Changes come in certan sectors of the food line just as in military lines of defense. But we cannot afford to relax voluntary economy for we must be prepared and disciplined for a possible harder fight ahead. The home trenches must keep up their end of the fight.

WE WILL HOLD

Officers of the allied armies are confident that the Germans will be held. They feel confident that his present drive will be stopped long before he reaches his objective. This battle, it is said. has been termed the "battle for peace," the idea being instilled into the German troops that the allies will be glad to listen to peace proposals after the Huns have shown their great superiority. Prisoners taken by the allies have said the troops have been promised that peace will soon be on the way. and with the success of the present drive it will be an assured fact.

There is no doubt but what Germany is war weary. It is now almost four years since the Germans began the great conflict. August first will mark the anniversary day. and on that bright summer day in 1914 the Germans believed the conflict would be of short duration They failed to take into account the resistive power of the allied countries. which assembled their citizens and made them over into soldiers while holding back the Hun hordes.

For four years the Huns have been hoping for that peace which always seems to be just a short distance ahead. but which they have never been able to reach. They have been encouraged with promises before every campaign, only to find their hopes blasted when the goal for which they have been striving has not been attained. Of late they have been "fed up" on what the present offensive is going to do—it will be the means of compelling the allied countres to discuss terms of peace. However the initial success of the present drove has not been such as to fill the Hun with hope. He has gone up against a new fighter; one who is not afraid and who is just a littlebetter than his opponent. This latter fact will be forcibly impresseid upon the Hun before the present offensve is over. as well as the fact that his "battle for peace" is another abortive effort and that a Hun proposed peace will never be attained.

A German war historian complains of the "unbearable British yoke" worn by Scotland, but omits to mention the fact that the Scots in their kilts are fighting for their Britain with such fury that the staggered Huns have nicknamed them "Ladies from Hell."

Birmingham, Ala., is to revive the old-time pillory as a fit punishment for "slackers. pro-Germans. profiteers. utterers of sedition and loafers." Delaware does not need to revive her whipping post in order to employ it to the same purpose.

The laying of keels and the launching of hulls is a daily performance now that the greatest ship production the world has ever known is going on in the United States.

NEW MINE OPERATING IN FIFTEENTH POOL

The Holt mine in the fifteenth pool just below Fairmont. is one of the recent openings on the upper reaches of the Monongahela, whose product is now being brought into the Pittsburg market. This mine has been equipped with electric power. and promises to be quite an active producer. Also yet only small towboats. with the older type of coal flats, measuring 18x90 feet in size, are used in this trade, owing to the small locks in use from No. 7 south. However, from present appearances, the trade is being fostered by the government, as it is preparing to do much repair work on all these locks and dams, whch have been but little used during the past few y ears, except for sand flats and pleasure boats.

It is obvious that the tax on a cook that you can keep will be more cheerfully paid.

CHARLEROI CELEBRATES

boys from home, yet the people realized that it was going to be a severe test. How well our own boys stood before it is now a matter of history; not only did the boys put the brakes on the German offensive, but on the morning of the fourth day they were counter-attacking and pushing the enemy back over ground lehad recently captured.

It was a brilliant feat, and the people of our entire community felt that w should celebrate and celbrate we did. The parade ended near the local passenger station, where an impromptu mass meeting was organized and which was thrilled to patriotic fervor by the splendid addresses of Rev. John R. Burson and Rev. C. A. Hartung.

It was a great night for Charleroi It showed how deep the feeling and how responsive the heart of those who are at home. whose every thought and action seems to be synchronized with those of the boys in France. They may be thousands of miles away, but the distance is not too great for us to respond sympathetically to their triumphs, as we would bear with any reverses that might come to them. It was almost midnight when the celebration finally ended, our citizens going home with a feeling that the American boys. our boys from the mill, the mine, the desk. the office, "lightning trained," as the Germans had contemptuously said, had met the most supreme test of a soldier and had proved to be victorious.

Why shouldn't we celebrate?

We may readily credit the report that a serious disease has developed in Germany due to the lack of soap, civilization's chief safeguard against encroaching germs.

Intelligent Nantucket Dog.

Whenever the steamer Gay Head sounds her whistle at 6:35 mornings at Nantucket. Harrigan. the town dog. runs down to the dock and aboard the boat. and then down into the dining saloon for his breakfast. He knows the sound of the Gay Head's whistle and never shows up on the three mornings when the Sankaty is at the dock. He figures the time so carefully that he always is through when the call comes to go ashore.—Boston Globe.

Young Women Shine Shoes.

A bootblacking establishment, owned and personally managed by a young woman, and conducted exclusively by young women, is the latest war novelty at Clarksburg, W. Va. Miss Helen Saunders, until recently connected with a restaurant, has bought a shoe-shining parlor and all the young men employed there have been replaced by young women. Young men of draft age were thus released for military service and for farm and industrial work.

What's the Use?

Phil Brown, manager of a local picture house, got word the other day that his film, "Missing," scheduled for the week of June 23, was missing. Then a day later he was glad to get word that "Missing" had showed up and was no longer missing.

Logically, "Missing" has always been "Missing." It never was found "again" because it had never been "missing" before. But what's the use?—Indianapolis News.

METHODISTS ENJOY SPLENDID PICNIC

The Methodist Sunday school picnic held at Oakland park on Thursday, July 18 was largely attended and was most successful event. The many features provided by the committee gave plenty of action aswell as amusement to all who were present. The hunt for the War Savings Stamp Girl and giving the correct slogan was exciting, Mrs. T. L. Lindsay finally winning the prize by pronouncing the slogan, "Down With Autocracy," to Miss Felicie Bosson who was the War Savings Girl.

The varous athletic events were won as follows:

Shoe race, Charles Hall.

Tug of war, won by the married ladies.

50 yard dash for boys, Wilmot Hancock.

50 yard dash for girls, Mary Davis.

Tug of war for men won by the fats.

Ladies ball throwing contest, Mrs. W. H. Milliken.

Spud race for boys, Harold Martin.

Ladies nail driving contest, Mrs. Elmore Small.

All of the events were keenly contested and were not only interesting but exciting as well.

The day was fittingly closed by all members of the picnic party assembling around the flag pole at 8 o'clock when Thomas H. Warrensford gave a four-minute talk on respect to the flag. The flag was then saluted and lowered while the assembly sang "America" all standing at attention.

Rev. Hartung addressed the assemblage, announcing the allied victory in France. The Doxology was then sung after which the benediction was pronounced by the pastor.

Learn When to Be Silent.

The union of good talker and listener is irresistible. Tact should teach us when to be silent. We have made progress when we realize that it is unnecessary to continually be explaining everything in detail. We flee from the statistical fiend, and the too personal "I" in conversation, personally reiterating the "I have done" and "I have not done"—an attitude significant perhaps of women's penchant for failing to grasp ideas in a large way.

The Parson's Reproof.

"Ordinarily I should hesitate to criticize one of my flock," said Parson Brown from the pulpit, as he glared reprovingly at the 400-pound member in the front pew, who had suddenly wakened from his little nap with a snort. "But, in the language of the father in the beautiful parable of the prodigal son, I feel like saying, 'Bring hither the fatted calf and kill it.'"

Learn to Do Without.

One of the arts of life is to learn how to do without. Few of us have everything we consider desirable and if we grumble at every little deprivation we make ourselves miserable and our associates uncomfortable. To learn to do without and yet be cheery and happy, goes far toward making life a success.

Proverbs Circulate.

Proverbs undoubtedly have a tendency to travel. They are carried from one land to another by emigrants, tourists, missionaries, tradesmen and seamen; but many which are closely similar doubtless owe their origin to no common stock, but to the common experience of mankind.

Origin of One Proverb.

One obtains historical glimpses in proverbs. The familiar "robbing Peter to pay Paul" is said to derive its origin from the fact that in the reign of Edward VI the lands of St. Peter at Westminster were appropriated to raise money for the repair of St. Paul's.

Original Source.

Examiner—"You are quite sure that this is a purely original composition you have handed in? I must say the wording sounds strangely familiar." Plagiarist—"Possibly you have run across some of the words in the dictionary."—Judge.

European Bee Superstition.

A prevalent superstition in parts of Europe is that bees will either fly away or die on the occasion of a death in the family unless someone knocks at their hive and tells them about it.

Just a Business Deal.

Dorothy said to her mother: "I went three errands yesterday, and you promised me two cents, but if you haven't any change today we'll settle it for one cent."

That's All We Need.

We could all be better, we think, if only the people around us would alter their ways and give us a chance. We hunger and thirst after righteousness—in our neighbors.

LARGE PURCHASE OF RIVER CRAFT

Coal from the extreme upper reaches of the Monongahela river will soon be towed to plants in and about Pittsburg in the near future on a larger scale as against only a few shipments a month as in past years.

On Tuesday Capt. John F. Klein steamboat broker of Pittsburg, closed one of the largest deals in shipping circles during the past few years, when he purchased all of the extra flats of the Pittsburg Coal company, approximately about 100 in number the price being about $30,000. These flats will be repaired at once and placed in the coal towing trade between Pittsburg and the fourteenth pool of the Monongahela, more than 100 miles south of Pittsburg.

The towing steamer Viga, which Capt. Klein purchased a short time ago has been overhauled and will be used in the trade, towinfi empties to the mines and loaded craft to the mills and yards. It is said that another steamer will also be purchased in order to take care of the business which Capt. Klein hopes to develop in the upper stretches of the river.

GOING AFTER THE INCOME SLACKER

Intimations are out that the government is about to inaugurate a drive against the income slacker the man or the firm that has made no returns to the government of business returns for last year. Just now in any of these people it is hard to determine, but already internal revenue officials are making a preliminary survey, prior to making a thorough canvass of the various districts with a view of having those who failed to make returns obey the law.

It is possible of course that every community may have a few of such slackers, but there are enough patriotic citizens to give the revenue officials assistance in bringing this class of citizens to time. The government desires to be fair and just to every citizen but there are those who will get out of paying any income tax if it is possible to do so. It is these people the government officials are after and whom they hope to round up before the campaign is over.

LITTLE BROTHER RUN DOWN

Cried and Fretted—How He Recovered

Mountainville, N. Y.—"My little brother had typhoid fever and it left him with no appetite, weak, run-down and always crying—Vinol proved a wonderful tonic in building him up and restoring his strength after everything else failed."—Lucy Sherman.

The reason Vinol was so successful in this little boy's case, is because it contains the very elements needed to build up a weakened run-down system, make rch, red blood and create strength.

CAUSE AND CURE OF CRAMPS

Too High Blood Pressure Frequently Brings Them On—Removed by Vigorous Rubbing.

In this article we shall discuss only the local muscular spasms that affect most commonly the calves of the legs, but that sometimes occur in the thighs, the arms or the wall of the abdomen. Internal cramps, or colic, swimmer's cramp and writer's cramp are affections of an entirely different nature.

A cramp, in this restricted sense, is a sudden, painful and very strong contraction of a small part of a muscle; it does not usually cause any movement in the affected limb, for to do that a contraction of nearly the entire muscle is necessary, and then we have what is called a spasm, or a convulsion.

The contraction is involuntary, although persons who are subject to cramps sometimes bring them on by a voluntary movement, such as stretching. The early-morning cramp is often brought on by the stretching to which one is prone on awaking. Very commonly the cramp comes on during sleep, and the intense pain awakens the sufferer with a start. The affected part of the muscle forms a hard knot, and if a large part of the muscle is involved the limb may be drawn up.

Children and the aged suffer more often with cramps than do persons in middle life. In children the cause is usually violent exercise, such as running and jumping, but in the elderly a tendency to cramps is often caused by incipient hardening of the arteries. When the blood pressure is high, cramps often occur, but they cease to trouble if the pressure is reduced. Persons who are rheumatic and gouty are especially liable to be attacked by cramps—very likely because hardening of the arteries accompanies their constitutional disposition.

The treatment of a single cramp of the calf is very simple: stand on tiptoe in such a way as to stretch the calf muscle and at the same time rub the place where the contraction has occurred. That will put an end to the attack promptly. If the attacks recur frequently, there is probably some constitutional fault that needs correction, and the sufferer should consult his physician.—Youth's Companion.

FISH-SKIN SHOES COMING?

Quite Possible, Though It Must Be Admitted They Are Not Altogether Desirable Footwear.

When things come to the worst every day is going to be like Friday—the atmosphere will be crowded with the aroma of fish. There is a scarcity of leather, as everybody knows, and, that being so, tanners are making a diligent search for other substitutes, and new sources of supply. Experts declare that the skins of aquatic creatures offer a practically undeveloped resource, and it is not unlikely that before long we shall be covering our extremities with the skins of the man-eating shark and the sacred codfish. The reason such skins have not heretofore been utilized for leather is not because they are not perfectly well adapted for such use, but only because the skins of land animals have been so plentiful. Disciples of Izaak Walton dispute the experts about the curing of fishskins. They say once a fish always a fish. If it comes to pass that we adopt fish-skin shoes these fishermen offer some advice to the callow youth who goes courting. "Leave your fish-skin shoes on the front porch, like the Hollanders and Japs, and court in your stocking feet. Otherwise there will be a chilly reception awaiting you." Being married, they are talking by the book.

Jungle Can Furnish Food.

While the new food campaign was being talked about at Seattle, Randolph L. Summerfield of Singapore, who has lived forty years in the Malay States, arrived on a government mission. He is a civil engineer. "The world's live-stock market has been decimated," said Mr. Summerfield, "but if worst comes to worst and there's a real meat famine, the jungles of the Malay States can supply vast quantities of meats and fats. Our forests are full of monkeys of all kinds. Our streams teem with crocodiles. The huge anaconda snake is numerous and prolific. Monkey meat, cooked French or Spanish style, billed on the menu as veal, would make an epicure yearn for more. There's no disagreeable sentiment about killing a crocodile or the boa constrictor. Portions of the 'croco's' tail are extraordinarily good, and the boa constrictor is a culinary favorite in India. Fried in butter, or certain oils, the boa constrictor is considered a d li ."—Argonaut.

Positive.

"Yes, I think it is, sir," replied the marketman.

"And do you know that it is fresh killed?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

"Are you sure?"

"Positive."

"Why are you so positive?"

"Because I caught it in my war garden only yesterday."

Too Much to Ask.

"Would you advise a boy to study the classics?"

"Yes, if he has the time. But it seems hard to expect him to take his mind off what's going on right now and go away back to the fall of Troy."

Elephant Most Useful.

Parrots are playful, but eaglets are not, and no one has ever been able successfully to tame an eagle. Among sea mammals, seals are very playful, sea lions are not, and trained seals are among the cleverest performers of the vaudeville stage. Of the larger animals, the elephant alone possesses playful character in youth, and thus, while the rhinoceros and hippopotamus can only be seen from the safe side of strong barred cages, the elephant can be utilized for a thousand purposes, from that of a derrick to a nursemaid.

Costly Law Proceedings.

The folly of rushing to the law to settle every little dispute is demonstrated by an action between two potters for a sum of £2. After being in court for 11 years, it was put an end to by being referred to arbitrators, who decided in favor of the defendant in the case, and ordered the plaintiff to pay all the costs incurred in the proceedings, which were assessed at £1,000.—London Tit-Bits.

Dead Locusts Valuable.

Locusts are plentiful in Uruguay, and the farmers of that republic are compelled to keep up a constant war against them. Millions of these destructive insects are killed every year. Recently it was learned that soap, fertilizer and lubricating oil may be obtained from the dead locusts, and in the future they will be utilized for that purpose. — Popular Science Monthly.

Connie Meant Business.

Connie takes very practical views of her parents' promises. The other day, to silence a fit of crying, her mother promised her a new doll. "What shall we call her, Connie?" she said, taking the little girl on her knee. "Never mind her name, mamma," cried Connie, looking at her mother out of the corner of her eye. "We'll find a name for her when—when she's buyed."

Forestalling Visitors.

Said the near-cynic: "Women seldom get credit for taking any precautions other than looking under the bed, but did you ever notice that they usually put on their hats a couple of hours before it is time to start to the place they have set their hearts on going?"

Not a Bad Description.

"I see where seven Frenchmen on trial in Paris for espionage claim they are 'journalists,' but show no ability to write." "Ahem!" said the practical newspaper man. "That seems to describe a journalist pretty well."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Oil Cleans Wood.

A small quantity of olive oil applied to a wet cloth from which most of the water has been wrung furnishes an excellent cleanser for fine wood. The surface of the furniture should be rubbed with the cloth and then dried thoroughly with a soft, dry rag.

De Soto's Error.

May 24 is the anniversary of the landing of Ferdinand de Soto in Florida in 1539. He thought he was on the path to a fabled fountain, by bathing in which he could regain his lost youth. Instead he found only morasses and impassable swamps.

Emerson on War.

War educates the senses, calls into action the will, perfects the physical constitution, brings men into such swift and close collision in critical moments that man measures man.—Emerson.

Logic.

"It seems to me," said the almost philosopher, "that the fellow who is constantly losing his temper would have sense enough to quit hunting it up every time."

One Reason.

The reason some men are so careless is because they know they can get away with it by merely saying "Excuse me."

Maybe He Was.

"So the doctor is going to operate on you tomorrow?" "Yes," said the financier, "and he looks as happy as if he were going to cut a melon."—Judge.

But Most of Them Don't.

"De more some men talks," said Uncle Eben, "de more you keeps thinkin' how interestin' dey'd be if dey knew somethin' wuth tellin'."

Uncle Eben.

According to a Paris physician, premature baldness is due to some trouble with the teeth.

Combined Effort.

The great artist who paints a picture which compels the admiration of the world does not do so with one sweep of the brush in one moment of inspiration. The great masterpiece is the product of thousands of strokes of the brush, of infinitesimal bits of pigment put on the canvas layer after layer, each done with consummate art. Every tiny bit of paint, every swift stroke does its tiny part toward what becomes at last a marvel of ages. So must we work, stroke by stroke, a bit here and a bit there, until our masterpiece has been completed.

Of Deep Historic Interest.

When Jacob died in Egypt "Joseph commanded his servants, the physicians, to embalm his father; and the physicians embalmed Israel." This passage from Genesis has now an added interest. If the body of Jacob was embalmed in the Egyptian manner, it ought now, when Hebron (with the cave Machpelah, where Jacob was buried) is in British hands, to be found possibly with Joseph's inscriptions.

Make the Most of Pleasure.

Few young people make as much as they should of small pleasures. For many years the standards of enjoyment have been undergoing a change and there is a tendency to think that we cannot have a good time that does not cost money. A girl's education is far from complete till she has learned to enjoy herself simply and without any money expense.—Pennsylvania Grit.

Love From Everyone.

No matter how wise you are, everyone you meet can teach you something. The young folks who are likely to grow are not the ones who pride themselves on their superior educational advantages, and look down on others from a lofty height. Be teachable. You may miss previous chances if you meet others and pass on without learning anything from them.—Girls' Companion.

Concerning Eggs.

The word egg occurs six times in the Old and once in the New Testament. Deuteronomy, 22:6; Job, 6:6, and 39:14; Isaiah, 10:15, and 59:5; Jeremiah 17:11, and Luke 11:12. Job 6:6, asks: "Can that which is unsavory be eaten without salt? or is there any taste in the white of an egg?"

Here's a Hard One.

We have been asked so many amazing questions by readers that it is a little difficult to pick out the craziest. One, however, which remains indelibly on our memory was: "Whether a chimera buzzing in a vacuum would be able to devour second intentions?" What do you think about it?

Tropical Fruits in Venezuela.

All sorts of tropical fruits, such as oranges, limes, bananas, plantains, mangoes, pawpaw, etc., and all sorts of vegtables are grown in Venezuela in sufficient quantities for local market, where they are very cheap, but none is being exported from this district.

"No, the fear of falling never enters my head," said the aviator to his gaping hearers. "What scares me is the danger of stalling my engine about two miles up and not being able to get down.

Automobile War Time Service Policy

The War Economy Board has requested the discontinuance of free service and inspections, and the closing of repair shops, accessory stores and salesrooms, both for new and used cars, after 6:00 P. M. nights and all day Sundays and holidays, and the placing of the retail automobile business on a cash basis throughout the country, for the purpose of releasing mechanical and clerical help for war purposes.

The Recommendations of the War Service Committee of the War Economy Board of the Council of National Defense Includes:

1—The elimination of all unnecessary service requiring the use of mechanics whose services might be released for Government work.

2—Discontinuance of issuing free service coupon books and service cards that cause unnecessary work of a minor character, such as adjustments, etc., which the owner can make himself.

3—Closing of repair shops, salesrooms, accessory stores, parts departments, etc., at 6:00 p. m. daily and all day Sunday and holidays.

4—Designating one or more repair shops, according to size of cities, where emergency work nights, Sundays and holidays can be handled, releasing a large amount of labor now required to keep open a large number of repair establishments

5—Establishing a cash basis for labor, parts, material and supplies, thus eliminating a lot of unnecessary work, reducing office help and maintenance, freeing this class of labor for war purposes.

6—Education of mechanics and the encouragement of apprentices in shops is urged in all cities where schools can be organized in garages, under the auspices of dealers, at night and at odd times.
